

REVENUE SHARING DISCLOSURE

Sigma Financial Corporation (“Sigma”, “we” or “our”) offers its customers a wide variety of securities and investment products including mutual funds, variable and group annuities, variable life insurance, alternative investments, and retirement plans. We collectively refer to the companies that offer these securities and investment products as “Product Sponsors”.

Sigma has created a tiered sponsorship program whereby participating Product Sponsors enter into a revenue sharing agreement with Sigma. These agreements provide Product Sponsors with certain benefits which include, but are not limited to, the following: greater access to our registered representatives through joint marketing opportunities, the ability to provide education and training for our registered representatives, and presentation opportunities at our corporate conferences. While we do not believe that these arrangements affect the judgment or advice of Sigma or our registered representatives, we believe it is important for our clients to be aware of them. Please note that our registered representatives do not receive any portion of the payments that Sigma receives from Product Sponsors. All such payments are remitted by the Product Sponsor directly to Sigma and are not derived from customer funds or assets. The current participating Product Sponsors and their payments (as of April 1, 2020) are listed below according to the various categories of available securities and investment products.
